

Typing Agent At Home

Did you know that not only are our K-3 students learning to type at school, but that the software that they use is online and available all the time? Students can log in and practice anytime, at school or at home!

Logging In:

To get to the login screen, go to www.perryschools.org, choose the Staff and Student Portal, and select Typing Agent under Quick Links OR go directly to <https://perry.typingagent.com>.

Click “Log in With Google” and sign in. Their “email address” is their student ID number followed by “@student.perryschools.org” and their password is their lunch number. Elementary students have accounts for login purposes, but they are unable to use them to send or receive email.

Most computers will give you the option to remember this information once it has been entered once or twice.

About the Program:

The Typing Agent curriculum is self-directed. Instructions should either be read aloud or displayed on the screen in both words and pictures. From home, students can work ahead, play practice games, or revisit completed lessons for additional practice.
