Census 2020

Completing the census is safe, easy, and important. In 2020, the Census Bureau will accept responses online. Responding is easy and convenient and can be done in 12 languages. You can respond online, by phone, or by mail. Additionally, responses to the 2020 Census are confidential and protected by law. Completing the 2020 Census form is an easy way to help shape a brighter future for the children in your home.

Make sure everyone is counted. Whether a child is related to you or not, every child in your home must be counted. This is what you need to know about counting children: 1. Your response to the census are private and will be kept confidential, as required by law. 2. Count children and babies who live with you even if their parents do not. 3. Count children who are living in your home on April 1, 2020, even if they are only staying with you temporarily. 4. Count every child who lives and sleeps in your home at least half of the time. 5. If a child's time is evenly divided between two households, count where the child is on Census Day – April 1, 2020. 6. Count newborn babies, even if they are still in the hospital on April 1, 2020.
