

New Faces & New Opportunities

It's an exciting time inside our schools! We are pleased to welcome new faces and provide new opportunities to a few familiar faces!

Southport Elementary has named Jeffrey Spencer as the school's newest principal. Mr. Spencer comes to us from the Washington Discovery Academy in Plymouth, IN, where he served as building principal for the last two years. After the first year of his leadership, the school's letter grade increased from D to B.

At Southport High, Adam Morelock was named the new girls basketball coach and science teacher. He previously taught and coached at Western High School.

SHS will also welcome Assistant Principal Andrew Ashcraft, who has served Southport Middle as a student adviser for the past three years.

Perry Meridian High welcomes Karl Vierling, director of bands. He joins us from Franklin Community High School where he was the assistant band director for five years.

PMHS has also named Lauren Buesking as assistant principal. She served as master teacher at Perry Meridian High for the last two years. Prior to that, she was English teacher at PMMS for eight years.

Jeanetta Penniston has been promoted to the role of assistant principal at Burkhart Elementary. Mrs. Penniston comes to Burkhart after serving as master teacher at Southport Elementary for six years. Before that, she was a classroom teacher at Southport Elementary for seven years.

Clinton Young Master Teacher Becky Arkins has accepted the role of district math coach.

Perry Meridian Sixth Grade Academy teacher Crystal Livesay has accepted the role of master teacher at Southport Elementary.

We wish them all well in their new roles!
